The SmartHose riser pipe break-away coupler is designed for any hazardous transfer application that has a potential for a pull-away incident. Designed with an engineered break-point the riser pipe break-away coupler can protect plant piping, bulkhead piping, tank truck piping and loading arms from the devastating consequences associated with pull-away incidents. The riser pipe break-away coupler offers full-flow break-away protection that requires no annual plant maintenance. The riser pipe coupler will be a safety upgrade to any facility using a bulkhead riser pipe.
